The Director informally inaugurated the campaign by addressing the students about how easy it is to maintain a clean environment. He advised the students to become those little drops which would will lead to the formation of an ocean in Methodist. All participants have taken oath to make and keep campus clean. A sense of responsibility has been evoked among the students through this campaign.

They helped people by demonstrating how waste has to be put in the dust bins that are spread across the college. The best outcome of the campaign was students didn't wait for the attenders to do the work but they themselves understood that the mess that they make by throwing papers has to be put properly in the bins.
